MURCHISON HOUSE SENIORS ENTERTAINED

Sophomore and Junior Girls Honor Them With a Bunco Party.

Last Saturday evening the Murchison House Junior and Sophomore entertained the Senior girls with a bunco party. Each girl of the house was given the opportunity to invite a friend, with the result that a merry company of young men were on hand to join in the fun of the evening.

The house was exquisitely decorated, the general color scheme being pink and white. Covering the walls and on the tables were pennants representing a wide range of colleges, while cut ferns were everywhere conspicuous.

Bunco was played until 10:30, when refreshments were served. While cake and cream were being eaten, many exchanges of (candy) hearts were made. After refreshments prizes were awarded. The winners of the head prizes, which were "Life Books," were Miss Ora Timmons and Mr. Charles Masse; of the consolation prizes, which were large sticks of peppermint candy daintily tied with pink ribbons, Miss Betty Tisdale and Mr. Watkins. Each of the honor guests (who were Misses Ada Laner, Mable Bolton, Lydia Franke, Katherine Holman, and Annie Hansen) received a silk crepe-de-chine hankerchief. Comic valentines were distributed among the guests—and in some cases they seemed to fit some of the boys.

The party broke up at 11:30.

Probably the hardest contested basketball game of the season staged by local teams was that played Thursday afternoon of last week between the Pedagogues and the Baptistists. Six games were played, with the Pedagogues winning three of them. The final score was 21 to 20 in the Pedagogues favor.

SOCieties Put On Annual Pageant

On Tuesday night of the 21 in Normal auditorium will be given the annual grand pageant in commemoration of the birth of the father of our country. The purpose of this entertainment, which is gotten up by the combined literary societies, is to arouse, and in some cases to instill, a true feeling of patriotism in red-blood Americans. It will consist of a play in which early historical characters figure prominently, other interesting colonial scenes, and some beautifully executed dances. Men in knee trousers of various colors with powdered wigs will be abundantly in evidence; but the principal attraction of the evening will be a host of pretty maidens charmingly arrayed in dainty and fascinating gowns. Come and enjoy the hour with us.

Every Day Meeting.

At an unusually interesting meeting, Saturday afternoon, Miss Anne Hansen was elected Pedagog Editor for the Every Day Society. With this office in such competent hands, the society is sure of the very best representation in our annual.

An enthusiastic discussion of the costumes for the pageant to be given February 21, followed. This will be one of the great events of the year and the Every Days will be right there.

It was decided to change the program from magazine study to story telling, to be followed by games or other amusement.

After the regular meeting Misses Falls and Johnson, complimented the society with tea. Everybody ate, drank and made merry for another hour.

600 STUDENTS SUBSCRIBE FOR PEDAGOG

The Chapel hour Wednesday morning was a very interesting one. Pres. Evans let the staff of the Pedagog have charge of the hour. Good talks were made by representatives of each class.

"What the Pedagog is" was very clearly explained by the Editor-in-Chief, R. E. Garlin.

"Its True Value" was made quite plain by "Blaze" Chapman, a representative of the Senior Class. Ralph Watkins, S. W. Oblenth, and Mr. Summers, representing the Junior, Soph., and Freshmen Classes, also made good talks and pledged their class's support to the Pedagog.

Mr. Watkins and Miss Sayers of the faculty, made excellent talks.

"The Financial and Business Side" was presented by N. B. Beard.

About 600 students subscribed for the Pedagog.

S. M. H. S. Club

The S. M. H. S. had a called meeting Saturday at the noon period and organized. Officers were elected and a committee, with the president as chairman was appointed to arrange matters for a representation in the Pedagog. The S. M. H. S. Club is a very important phase of the S. W. T. N. life and tends to bind the better regards of the old students of the H. S. thereby fostering that affection which should exist between alumni of the same school. The officers as elected are a very able and up to date bunch of human beings, as follows:—President, Chas. E. DeViney; Vice President, Rabbit Hall; Secretary, Gladys Fourqurean; Treasurer, Ralph H. Gardner.
There is a tendency on the part of some people to treat carelessly and indifferently all public property. On the surfaces there seems to be some slight excuse for such a disposition, but upon a closer view the position is without foundation. Public property should be accorded the same respect and consideration as private property. If two people own a thing in common are they any the less interested in its welfare? Surely not.

Why is it, then, some students will handle our news papers, magazines, and other periodicals so carelessly? Do not these valuable records of current events belong to us? But they belong to us collectively; we can use them, but not appropriatly them expressly for personal use. When you use them handle them with care, remembering others have an interest in them; above all, replace them on the news stand. Don't leave them scattered about the library. Do not compel others to search over the room for a magazine. Some consideration might also be shown the librarian in the matter. Let's act like "grown people!"

"After Tyler vetoed the bank bill Clay asked all the whips to resign from his cabinet," explained Mr. Birdwell to a class "All expected Webster to do the same." Here Mr. Birdwell paused to ask:

"Why didn't Mr. Webster pray?—I mean resign."

"Warnings to a Fish!"

A Fish in due season his home shall explore,
And aspiring, shall rise to become Sophomore.
And thence for due reasons he soon will regret,
He sneaks into Junior, to fluss and to fret.

His work is not done, he knows of a store,
Where he buys him a volume of Senior-doll lore.
A volume he gets, too late for a sham.
He can but smile, take it, or curse and be damned!

He curses, I'll wager, when he sees what's in store,
And he wants, now, again to be Fish, or Sophomore.
He tries out the water, but now he can't swim.
With a nose for a gill, and an arm for a fin.

So he learns the lesson that you, and I learned,
And he paid for that lesson in cash that burned.
Too bad you can't cheat here or extract with your knife.
A something for nothing, in this old game of life!

Shelton: "Isn't your girl a clipper?"
Paul Russell: "She is more; she's a revenue cutter."
Y. W. C. A. Notes.
The Y. W. has organized a choir which is improving the music on the regular meetings. During this month, which is community service month, the Y. W. will study the ways of serving the different communities. The subject of the first meeting of this month was: "The Challenge of the City," which suggests ways of doing service in the city. And a number of interesting talks were made, the most interesting of which was the "Hall House." Miss Hines and Hornsby, who had seen this house, told about the parts of interest to them.

The subject of the second meeting was "The Challenge of the Country." At this meeting Rev. McFarland discussed in a very interesting way the value of recreation, play and play for the country children.

The third meeting will be a further study of rural conditions.

At the fourth meeting Miss Abbie Graham, Y. W. secretary for the small town and country work in the Southwest will talk to the association about the Eight Week's Club. A class will be organized to study the work and the manner of organizing this club.

Meeting of Classes Thursday.
For the purpose of attending to special business all the classes of the school held meetings during the chapel hour Thursday morning. One question determined was to have school on the second of March to make up for a day lost during the Christmas holidays.
