Another statement emanating from the Texas Live Stock Journal.

The number of cattle referred to in the United States is estimated at 17,000,000. A loss of one per cent of cattle says: not a vestige remains.

The other lot, so-called "dogies," are no longer sufficient. It must be remembered that dogies don't die in the cold. If any dogies don't die in the cold, the stock is not considered policy if dogies don't die.
